Oath/Declaration

The oath or declaration is defective. A new oath or declaration in compliance with 37 CFR 1.67(a) identifying this application by application number and filing date is required. See MPEP §§ 602.01 and 602.02.

The oath or declaration is defective because:

It was not executed in accordance with either 37 CFR 1.66 or 1.68. The signature of one inventor (Tsuyoshi Abe) has been omitted.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 4-7 and 10-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Japanese Patent Publication 2003-083682 (JP'682). JP'682 teaches a container (100) capable of being hermetically closed and storing molten metal and supplying molten metal to the outside by pressure comprising a frame (100a) a heat insulating wall (100b), a refractory insulating member in solid form (100c) and an inner refractory storing bath (100d) meeting the instantly recited requirements and showing all aspects of the above claims.

Claims 1, 4-7 and 10-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Japanese Patent Publication 2004-074183 (JP'183). JP'183 teaches a container (1) capable of being hermetically closed and storing molten metal and supplying molten metal to the outside by pressure comprising a frame (6) a heat insulating wall (7), a refractory insulating member in solid form (9) and an inner refractory storing bath (8) meeting the instantly recited requirements and showing all aspects of the above claims.

Applicant cannot rely upon the foreign priority papers to overcome this rejection because a translation of said papers has not been made of record in accordance with 37 CFR 1.55. See MPEP § 201.15.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2, 3, 8 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over either of JP'682 or JP'183 in view of WO 92/20479 (WO'279). Each of JP'682 and JP'183 shows all aspects of the above claims except for the use of a refractory in granular or powder form as the layer between the heat insulating layer and the refractory storing bath layer. WO'279 teaches that powdered or granular refractory materials were also known at the time the invention was made as suitable insulating ceramics (7) for insertion between refractory linings (8 and 3) and were also desirable because of the ease of repair and insertion of the inner lining (8) afforded thereby. Because ease of assembly and repair would also be desirable in the containers of each of JP'682 and JP'183, motivation to employ a granular or powdered refractory material as suggested by WO'279 as the materials (100c or 9) of either of JP'682 or JP'183 would have been a modification obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Mizuno et al and Abe et al are also cited as further examples of prior art containers including an interior refractory storing bath.
